CONSUMPTION

By the Physicians
SEVERE
COUGH
At Night
Spitting Blood
Given Over by the Doctors!
LIFE SAVED BY
AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL

"Seven years ago, my wife had a severe attack of lung trouble which the physicians pronounced consumption. The cough was extremely distressing, attended with the spitting of blood. The doctors being unable to help her, I induced her to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and was surprised at the great relief it gave. Before using one whole bottle, she was cured, so that now she is quite strong and healthy. This medicine saved my wife's life. I have not the least doubt."—K. MORRIS, Memphis, Tenn.

It is a most valuable remedy for all cases of lung trouble.

The Pulpit and the Stage.
[Rev. F. M. Stuart, Pastor United Brethren Church, New York, N. Y.]
The pulpit and the stage are two of the most powerful agencies for the improvement of the human race. The pulpit is the voice of God to the people, and the stage is the voice of the people to the world. Both are essential to the progress of civilization. The pulpit should be a place of purity and truth, and the stage should be a place of instruction and amusement. Both should be used for the benefit of the human race.

Specimen Cases.
S. H. Clifford, New York, N. Y., writes: "I was troubled with a severe cough and spitting of blood. I tried many remedies, but none gave me relief. I then tried Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and was cured in a few days. I have not the least doubt that this medicine saved my life."—S. H. Clifford, New York, N. Y.

There are some drawbacks about very fast time on railroad trains for the engineers and firemen. It takes seven or eight days to get from New York to Chicago, and so great is the strain on the engines that they have to lay off a day between runs.

Fifty years ago a horse power cost six or seven pounds of coal per hour. Today a good compound engine will produce a horse power at one-half pound of coal per hour. Water power costs nearly as much now as then.

The Value of Woman Suffrage.

The Boston Daily Herald of April 14 invites the advocates of woman suffrage to consider the following questions: "What do women hope to accomplish by the polls which their husbands and brothers have not already done for them? How do they expect to succeed in elevating politics to a new plane when men with motives as pure and resolutions as earnest have already failed? Is the general average of intelligence, of capacity and of common sense that has to be reckoned with, let it be admitted that under a system of female suffrage the mass vote would be as high an average in these qualities as the vote of man. On that supposition, it would merely duplicate the existing vote. But changing its general character. But the duplication of the ignorant, the vicious and the foolish voters would more obviously increase the difficulty of the problem of good government than any doubling of the other element of the electorate could possibly simplify it.

These are fair questions; let us give them a fair answer. If good government can exist only on the supposition that the ignorant, foolish and vicious voters are a minority, if so, to double the intelligence, wisdom and virtuous majority for good government, while it will only double the dangerous minority, thus reducing the voting power of the bad element one-half, it, for instance, sixty out of one hundred voters are trustworthy, their majority is only ten, but when the number of the hundred, the trustworthy majority becomes twenty. Surely this alone would be a great gain for the better element.

But the suffragists claim that the extension of suffrage will not merely duplicate the votes of men. Women voters are needed most of all because women are unlike men in character, habits and occupations. The feminine qualities are needed, along with the masculine qualities, to make the government truly representative. Every class that votes makes itself felt in the government.

Women, as a rule, are more gentle and humane than men, more influenced by moral and religious considerations, more temperate, chaste, economical, and law-abiding. They comprise two-thirds of our church members and only one-tenth of our criminals. Therefore, their special qualities will be felt in legislation as a result of their enfranchisement, and these are the very qualities in which government is now defective.

But the suffragists no longer rest their case upon theory alone. They appeal to facts. A few twenty-six years ago, in England, women have voted since 1869 in municipal elections upon a small property qualification, or upon payment of $30 annual rate or tax (the same as is required of men). In Wyoming, since 1890, women have had universal suffrage in all elections. Mr. Gladstone in England testifies that women have voted "without detriment, and with great advantage."

In 1893, the House of Representatives unanimously affirmed that they advise every political community on earth to follow their example; while in Colorado the women have just achieved what the Herald regards as a beneficent change of administration. None of the predicted evils have anywhere resulted. Everywhere it is the element of woman that has come to the front; nowhere have the ignorant and depraved among women shown much willingness to vote.

"The best government attainable is one which fully and fairly represents the average virtue and intelligence of the community. To day the more civilized class of men upon their leisure hours in the society of women. So long as these women take no interest in politics, such men accompany the women of the bourgeoisie to lectures, concerts, theatres and church meetings, but when they do, they have political rights to exercise and duties to perform, the man who now shrinks their political duties will fulfil them with alacrity, and we shall have as never before a full and unbiased expression of public opinion.

In Massachusetts the American women who can read and write outnumber those of foreign birth more than two to one. By the census of 1885 the figures stand as follows:

MASSACHUSETTS.
American women who can read and write (possible voters)..... 401,365
Foreign women who can read and write (possible voters)..... 107,025
American majority..... 294,340

BOSTON.
American women who can read and write (possible voters)..... 87,914
Foreign women who can read and write (possible voters)..... 15,916
American majority..... 71,998

Women are citizens, and the government is their government. All their rights to person, property, and children are subjects of legislation. For one-half of the people to be governed without their consent by the other half is a violation of the principles of representative government. It is also a violation of the most flagrant character, since women, as wives, mothers and widows, have a special right to protect and special wrongs to remedy. Whether suffrage be regarded as a right, a duty, or a privilege, its denial in the case of a woman is exactly the same wrong as a similar denial would be in the case of a man. Such denial can only be justified on the ground of personal inability to form an intelligent opinion. The question is simply this: Is a woman capable of a rational choice, in regard to principles, measures and men? No, she has a moral right to vote; if not, she is justly classed politically with idiots, lunatics and convicts. Above and beyond all considerations of political expediency is the claim of simple justice.

The Elevator Boy.
The views of the elevator boy on the new women are worth repeating. Said he: "They talk about the new woman; I don't know what she is exactly, but if she ain't like the old kind we don't want her."—[Ed.]

Whiskers that are prematurely gray and faded should be restored to their natural color, and Hocking's Dye will do it. It is a most valuable remedy for all cases of lung trouble. It is a most valuable remedy for all cases of lung trouble. It is a most valuable remedy for all cases of lung trouble.

A Pickney Palace.
Mrs. Robert Garrett of Baltimore has just completed at her country seat one of the handsomest and most convenient poultry and pigeon buildings in this country. The building is 250 feet in length and has three turret towers, one at each end and one in the center, and its total cost was over $8,000. The center tower is fitted up as a reception room and library, and the second story is to be used as a bedroom by the poultry and pigeon keeper. The second stories of the end towers are to be used for pigeon, of which there will be eight or ten varieties kept. The balance of the building will be devoted to poultry.

Arbor Day Hymn.
[By the author of "My Country, 'Tis of Thee," and to be sung to the same tune.]
For the sturdy trees,
Fanned by each fragrant breeze,
Lovely they stand!
The sunbeams o'er them fall;
They shade each twinkling hill;
They crown each swelling hill;
Lowly or grand.

Plant them by stream and way,
Plant them where the children play
And where the old men rest;
In every verdant vale,
On every sunny slope—
Whether in snow or fall,
God knoweth best.

Select the strong, the fair;
Plant them with earnest care;
No fall is vain.
Plant them in sheltered place,
Where, like a lovely face,
Let in some sweeter grace,
Chance may prove vain.

God will his blessing send,
All things on him depend.
His loving care
Oings to each leaf and flower,
Like love to his tower.
His presence and his power
Are everywhere. —S. F. Smith.

The Heart of the Tree.
What does he plant who plants a tree?
He plants the friend of man and sky;
He plants the flag of breezes free,
He plants of beauty, towering high;
He plants a home to heaven nigh.

ONE WAS PLANTED AT THE CAPITAL BY WASHINGTON.

Historic Memorial Trees to Be Seen at the National Botanic Garden—The Harrison Tree and the Confucius-Dana-Cummings Tree—The Cameron Tree.

Washington claims to have more trees and more famous trees than any other city. On the south side of the White House grounds, on the lawn close to the executive greenhouses, are two beautiful little fir trees, planted by Benjamin Harrison in the spring of 1892, while president. One of them is only four feet high as yet, but it is growing famously, and the other, six feet high, is also doing well.

The "Thaddeus Stevens tree," a magnificent example of the perfection to which the oriental sycamore, or plane tree, can be brought, forms the central arboreal attraction of Lincoln park, on Capitol hill. It stands just east of the bronze statue of Lincoln unshaking the slave. The tree was planted by Stevens in 1862 down in the Botanic garden, but in 1870 was removed bodily to Lincoln park, 16 blocks distant, where it now thrives with wonderful vitality. Its topmost branch is fully 66 feet in the air, while its lower branches sweep the ground. Without doubt it is the grandest of all the grand sycamores at the national capital.

But it is in the National Botanic garden—that famous wonderland of beautiful trees and shrubs, of which Superintendent William R. Smith is the chief magician—that the greatest collection of historic memorial trees extant in this country can be seen.

Superintendent Smith practically knows more about trees, both theoretically and practically, than anybody else in the United States, and he loves trees almost as though they were endowed with human souls. He has been in charge of the garden ever since Millard Fillmore's administration, and for a generation back it has been a favorite fact of his to invite statesmen in Washington happening to visit the garden to plant memorial trees, of which he keeps an accurate record. At the east end of the garden, near the young Washington elm planted by Senator Beck of Kentucky, is a great overcup oak, set out in 1861 by Senator John J. Crittenden, the famous peace orator of Kentucky during the rebellion.

Not far from it are two little cedars of Lebanon, planted from the seed—only, in 1889, by Senator Hoar of Massachusetts, and the other, in 1890, by his friend, ex-Senator Evans of New York. Hard by is a good sized Kentucky oak, planted some ten or twelve years ago by Congressman and Governor Proctor Knott of the Blue Grass State.

Near the center of the garden and just south of the conservatory tower two rare cypresses, transplanted from Broad street, Philadelphia, in 1880, by Edwin Forrest, the actor, and John W. Forney, the influential Washington and Philadelphia journalist. A few paces to the west of these is the "Albert Pike tree," an old shaped growth, known as the Masonic cypress, planted in 1882 by the late General Albert Pike, while occupying the position of chief of the Scottish order, the highest rank of Masons. Between this and the main walk is a shapely linden, planted by the late Senator Zebulon Vance of North Carolina, and close by this are two cedars, planted, respectively, by the late Senator Lot Morrill of Maine and Senator Justin S. Morrill of Vermont.

A stone's throw from the "Albert Pike tree" and close by the western end of the conservatory, is a young sapling, christened by Captain Smith as the "Confucius-Dana-Cummings tree," seven feet high. It is a Chinese oak and has a unique history, considering its youth. It was planted in 1893 by Congressman Anson J. Cummings of New York from a stem presented to Superintendent Smith by Charles A. Dana, editor of the New York Sun, who had caused it to be raised by his gardener, William Faulkner, at his country place on Long Island, from an acorn picked up from the grave of Confucius, in China, and forwarded by a friend while traveling in the Flowery Kingdom. It is doing remarkably well under the tender care it receives, and its long name is not likely to retard its growth.

Farther down toward the western end of the garden is the "Holman tree," a beautiful Crimean fir, planted in the spring of 1862. It is now 25 feet tall, and hundreds of cuttings have been taken from it to ship elsewhere for the dissemination of the species in other parts of the country where it has not been introduced. In the vicinity of this is the "Tim Campbell tree," a small leaved elm from Siberia, planted two years back by the genial congressman from the east side of New York city, and near it is the "Garland tree," a zelkova, planted five years ago by Mr. A. H. Garland, President Cleveland's first attorney general.

Over on the west side also is the "Blackburn tree," a graceful big leaved magnolia, set out by the Kentucky senator in 1873. Not far from it is the "Hayward tree," a red leaved British oak, planted by the present American minister to the court of St. James eight years ago, while he was serving as secretary of state.

The seventh quarterly meeting of the Board Union Christian Endeavor society will be held at the Congregational church, Tuesday, May 7th. There will be two sessions, that of the afternoon at 2 P. M. commencing with a praise service led by A. Richmond Hamblin; in the evening the praise service will be led by J. Herbert Wilcox, and addresses will be given by Rev. C. C. Elson of Boston.

Through the kindness of Alfred Dodge and son, of New York, Miss J. W. Gifford has received autograph No. 6. It is a handsome one which she will be pleased to exhibit and explain its merits to any one interested in these sweet and pure toned instruments. Easy to learn, simplicity and almost unlimited musical possibilities are some of the pleasing features of the autoharp.

A syndicate of wealthy Chinamen in California have leased the largest fruit ranch in the state, besides several other ranches, the extent of all of which runs up to between 7000 and 8000 acres. They have managed to get them at a low rental. They will handle and market the fruit which they raise. They will employ only Chinese laborers upon the ranches. There are fortunes for the syndicate in these ranches, though, comments the Atlanta Constitution, "the superior Caucasian who formerly owned them could not make them pay."

Town Tax and Poll Tax for 1895.

ASSASSIN'S NOTICE.
Middletown, R. I., April 25, A. D. 1895.
In and for the Town of Middletown, in the State of Rhode Island, we, duly elected sheriffs and sworn, hereby give notice, that for the purpose of assessing the town tax ordered at the annual town meeting held in said Middletown, on the third day of April instant, A. D. 1895, and of assessing the poll tax for the current year A. D. 1895, as provided in Chapter 730 of the Public Laws of this State, we will meet at the Town Hall in said Middletown, on Wednesday, the twenty-second day of May next, A. D. 1895, on Thursday, the twenty-third, and on Friday, the twenty-fourth days of said month of May, and on each of said days, from nine o'clock A. M. until five o'clock P. M., to make and complete the assessment of the two taxes heretofore mentioned and fix a valuation on the taxable property of said town.

All persons and corporations liable to taxation in said Middletown, are hereby notified and required to bring in to the undersigned, assessors as aforesaid, a true and exact account of all their real estate, describing the same, and specifying the nature of every parcel owned or claimed by them, and to make oath to the truth of said account before the undersigned assessors as aforesaid. And whoever neglects or refuses to bring in such account, as provided by law. Every male person above the age of twenty years, who pays no property tax, or property tax less than one dollar, and who, if registered, would be qualified to vote, in the town of Middletown, shall be liable to the assessment of a poll tax of one dollar, or so much thereof as with other taxes assessed against said person shall amount to one dollar.

JOSEPH CORDELL, Assessor of Taxes.
HERMAN E. PECKHAM, Assessor of Taxes.
ISAAC A. SHERMAN, Assessor of Taxes.
STEPHEN H. GOSWOLD, Assessor of Taxes.

Sheriff's Sale.

STATE OF RHODE ISLAND AND PROVIDENCE PLANTATIONS.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sheriff's Office.
Newport, February 14, A. D. 1895.
BY VIRTUE and in pursuance of an Execution, No. 310, issued out of the Common Pleas Division of the Supreme Court of Rhode Island, within and for the County of Newport, on the fifth day of February, A. D. 1895, and returnable to the said Court August 5th, A. D. 1895, upon a judgment rendered by said Court on the thirty-first day of January, A. D. 1895, in favor of Samuel W. Wiley and Joseph Wiley, co-partners, doing business in the City, County and State of New York, under the firm name of S. W. Wiley & Co., plaintiffs, and against James A. Brown, recently of the town of Middletown, in said County of Newport, defendant, I have this day at 20 minutes past 2 o'clock P. M. issued the said Execution on all the right, title and interest, which the said defendant, James A. Brown, had on the 31st day of October, A. D. 1894, in 20 minutes past 2 o'clock P. M. (the time of the attachment on the original writ), and to a certain lot, or parcel of land with all the buildings, and improvements thereupon, situated in the town of Middletown, in said County of Newport, in the State of Rhode Island and Providence Plantations, and bounded and described as follows: Northernly, on land of Lester A. and Evelyn Barrows, 251 feet; Southernly, on Bay View Drive, 330 feet; Easternly, on Canebrake Avenue, 330 feet; and Westernly, on land being triangular in shape and a portion of the "Bryer farm" so called, and recorded in Land Evidence of the town of Middletown, Book 10, page 315.

Notice is hereby given that I will sell the said attached and levied on estate at a Public Auction to be held in front of the State House in said City of Newport in said County of Newport on the 17th day of May, A. D. 1895, at 11 o'clock A. M., for the satisfaction of said execution, interest on the same, costs of suit, my expenses, and all contingent expenses, if sufficient.

Capes and Jackets.

Last week we told you certain good things about our capes, today we have more and better to offer.

This time Ladies' Capes that we have just purchased at our own prices and have made them small to help you. Handsome capes for young ladies at $3.57, $5.00, $6.50, $7.50, to $12.50. The work is nice. The jet, silk and lace of the best and they have the look and style of capes that cost elsewhere $10 to $25; our prices as you note are less than one-half. For ladies who are older, and wish for a longer cape we have them in the best styles at $4, $5, $6.50, $7.50, to $10. The demand this season is for good things at little money, and our efforts to win you were never more successful.

Tan Covert Jackets at $5.00, with velvet collars, at $7.50, all silk lined and the best in tan and black cloth at $10. Our suits are beginning to arrive, pretty stylish costumes from $7.50 to $25. Silk waists and separate skirts sell better than ever, the prices are lower. Come today and see them.
